3 How to Subscribe

This section describes how the general public can sign up to avail of the Market Messages sent by SEMOpx via the SEMOpx public website.
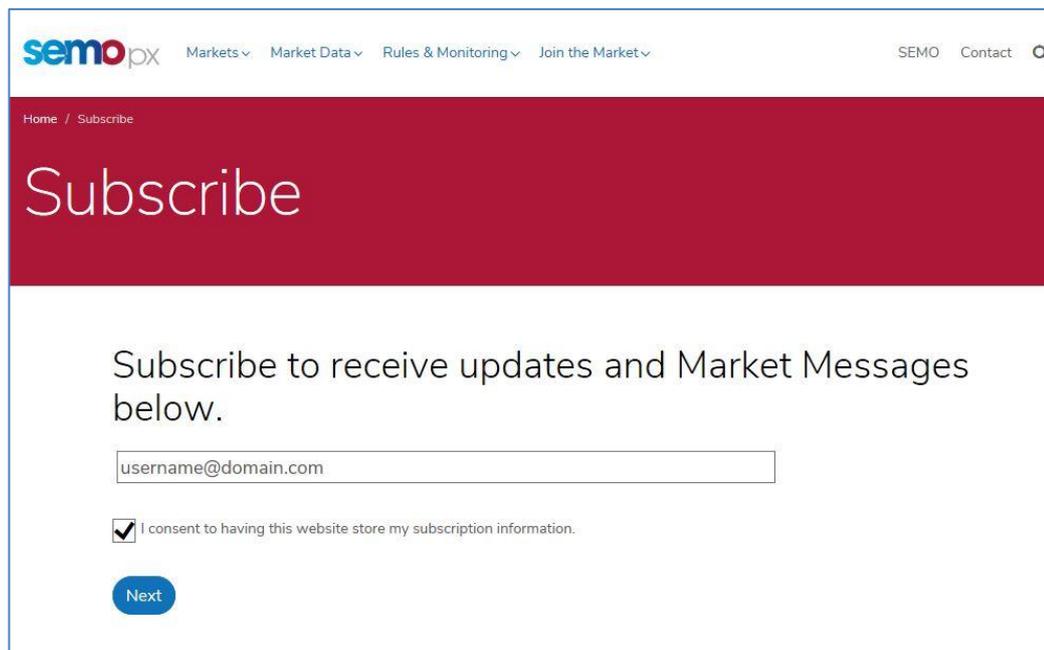

3.1 Navigate to the Subscription Page

The first step is to navigate to the subscription page. The link to this is called Subscribe, which is found in the footer at the bottom of every web page on the SEMOpx website.

3.2 Provide Your Email Address

Once you're on the Subscribe page, the first screen has a box which will prompt you to enter your email address. In this box, type the email address where you want to receive market messages.

Once you have entered your email address, you must click to tick the box beside "I consent to having this website store my subscription information." This is required to allow our system to remember your email address so we can send you the market messages.

3.3 Choosing Your Subscription Lists

When you click next, this will bring up a screen where you can select which market message lists you want to subscribe to.

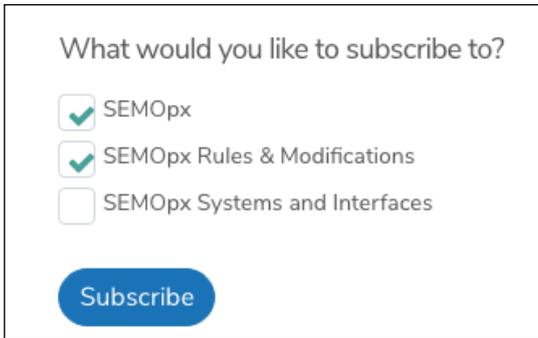

To choose your desired subscriptions, click to check the box beside each list you wish to subscribe to. An explanation of each of these options is provided below.
